

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

PREFACE.

The tabular statements of exports and imports of the United States, constituting the report on commerce and navigation for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1863, were originally in greater part prepared with distinctions conforming to the several tariffs in operation during that year. They were in consequence extended much beyond the usual limit, there having been more or less importation under each of the several tariff acts of March 3, 1857, March 2, 1861, August 5, 1861, and December 24, 1861. The enumeration of articles in these last-named tariffs was in much greater detail than before, and with grades and other distinctions, which rendered the return from custom-houses less prompt than usual, and greatly increased the difficulty of compilation when returned. In view of the space likely to be occupied if these statements were printed in full, as in former reports, it was the purpose of the department to undertake their consolidation into a single condensed statement, and progress had been made in this work when Congress especially directed such condensation to be made in this and in all future reports.

The tabular statements were then entirely recast, and the classification of articles was undertaken with the purpose of placing all those together which were generally the same, however differently they had been described in the several tariff acts, and differently placed in the quarterly returns from the custom-houses. The difficulty of this attempt proved greater than was anticipated, and the appearance of the volume has been delayed in consequence.

There are, however, many improvements in the form of the tables as here given, which, it is believed, will in some measure compensate for the delay.

First, the entire body of statements of exports and imports is condensed as regards the countries with which commerce exists; the detail to each minor country, or distinguishable division of a foreign power, being omitted here, and reserved to a class of comparative tables not before given. Thus the list of designated countries is reduced to thirty-two, where there were previously sixty-eight to seventy-three named, and the matter of four pages in the report of 1860-'61 is put on one page in this report. The extent of this condensation may be illustrated by stating that the entry of exports to and imports from Turkey in Europe, occupying by computation nearly 16 pages of the report of 1860-'61, is shown far better in the present form of report in less than one page of the comparative tables, where, in addition, there is not only the commerce of one year, but a series of years is at the same time compared. And similarly with every minor country, the leading or actual foreign powers only being embodied in the first class of tables. These are complete, however, as regards the total trade.

These tables are also all in condensed form as regards the list of ports or districts of the United States. This form of publishing the statistics began in 1856, there having previously been no other arrangement of the tables than that by countries. But the list of ports being large, and many of them having little foreign trade, the question involved the same considerations as in the case of reducing the number of unimportant countries. Each port, though exporting or entering but a mere trifle in value of goods to and from foreign countries in a year, would occupy as much space as the port having the largest commerce, or, by computation, about 16 pages each in the report of 1860-'61. The list was therefore reduced to the leading parts simply, but in no case merging the ports of different States. Should distinctions more exact than these at any time be called for, they are accessible on the record-books of the department, without the necessity of resorting to new computations, or liability to delay from any cause.

The exports of the produce and manufactures of the United States are considered to have natural priority in the arrangement of the tables, and they are first given by countries, occupying 16 pages; and next by districts or ports of exportation, occupying 16 pages, with a summary of four pages. In the last previous report the same tables occupied 96 pages, and the tables were separated in different parts of the volume.

It should be observed that every item of detail to each distinguishable division of every foreign country not found here will be found in the comparative tables. Thus, the commerce here given under the single title Italy, will in those tables appear in detail for Sardinia, Tuscany, the Papal States, and the Two Sicilies, or former Neapolitan Kingdom; and as the items in each case are much less in number than those of the entire schedule, the space these comparative tables occupy is small, not averaging one-eighth of the space saved by the condensation.

The classification of articles in both the export and import tables is also made rigidly alphabetical, with every item in its proper association; and non-enumerated articles are entered in their proper positions whenever it is possible to identify them. These changes involved much labor in consequence of the imperfect arrangement of the schedules, long in use, under which they were reported.

Next, the exports of foreign merchandise are given in the same manner, the list of countries being condensed to thirty-two; but the space here saved is less in consequence of the titles not admitting in the first statement, or that by countries, of two forms on each page. They are, however, condensed to less than one-fourth their former space; and the tables, which were originally prepared to conform to the different tariffs in operation during that year, and thus occupying great space, are all reduced to one, with a rigid arrangement and condensation of items. In the present report these tables occupy 56 pages; in the report for 1860-'61 they occupy 230 pages.

The imports are given in similarly condensed form as regards both countries and districts or ports of entry. The items are also rearranged in rigid alphabetic order, corrected and made complete as to the identity of articles entered under the different tariffs; and with all important articles originally returned as unenumerated entered at their proper places in the list.

The tables of imports do not, in consequence of the greater space required by the titles or descriptions of articles, admit of a degree of condensation so great as the exports; and the countries, statement, therefore, reaches to 85 pages; but the district statement occupies only 44 pages, and the two, with the summary of articles imported, but 140 pages against 628 pages in the report of 1860-'61. This contrast would have been still greater had the tables for 1861-'62 been printed in the usual form, since they would then have occupied much more space than they do in the report for 1860-'61.

In all this condensation it is not simply the reduction of space that has been sought. The chief purpose has been to render the statistics clear, and readily accessible for reference. It is obvious that if the substance of several tables can be united on one page without the omission of any essential article or condition, the facility with which the facts may be used is very greatly increased.

And to add a form of statistics often called for by Congress, as well as particularly valuable for individual reference, a series of statements called comparative tables has been prepared, to follow the usual statements of commerce as arranged by countries, and by ports or districts. In these tables the trade to and from each distinguishable division of every foreign country is given in a list of articles as brief, compact, and clear as possible, yet embracing everything of consequence or significance as an element of trade. Countries having little trade with the United States here occupy little space, while others are relatively much extended. The whole space occupied by them is but a small proportion of that saved by the elimination of minor countries, and minor ports from the tables before referred to.

In these tables there is also a comparison of a series of years, thus rendering each annual report in which the table shall be reproduced a compend of the trade with each country of several years. This will greatly reduce the labor of compilation from the reports on commerce and navigation for any specific purpose, or in exhibiting the trade of the United States with any foreign country. This class of tables has been found so valuable as to supersede the former classes of this report almost entirely in the British annual statements of trade and navigation. Statements by countries and by ports of that general form are given only partially in the British or French publications, the chief reliance being on the summary lists of articles exported and imported, and on the comparative tables which, in the British reports, cover a period of five years, and compare the detail for each year at each annual publication.

NOTE.—In consequence of unexpected delays in the issue of this report, bringing it nearly to the time of the appearance of the report for the fiscal year 1862-'63, the comparative tables alluded to are deferred to the last-named volume, where a period of four years' trade to and from each foreign country will be found in place of the comparison of three years first designed to be added to this volume.

NOTE.

The preceding table of Imports by Districts corrects several transpositions of quantities and values made in condensing the table of Imports by Countries. None of these affect the general total of values, though they correct some absolute errors in the entries of quantity. The most important corrections are as follows :

- Page 110. Countries Statement : Add 1,400 gallons to the quantity of Beer and Ale, in England, and in the totals.
- Page 110. Correct the footing for Books to $276,587, not $275,365.
- Page 111. Transfer 924 lbs., $14, Candles, from line 20 to line 21,
- Page 113. Clothing, not of wool, requires two or three items of small amount from Embroideries, and other like designations ; and also includes one or two like items strictly belonging elsewhere.
- Page 114. Cocoa. 22,718 lbs., $1,589, from British Possessions in Africa, is here improperly entered ; it should be with Gum copal, page 131.
- Page 117. Cottons. Several transpositions occur here, viz : Cottons, brown, add 1,042 yards, to British East Indies, and correct the footing of yards to 6,013,961. Cottons, bleached—make yards from Russia, 34,984 ; from France, 68,427 ; from Cuba, 80 ; and the footing 7,326,994 yards. Cotton, yard goods not specified—insert 91,175 yards, $18,230, Hamburg and Bremen ; insert 815 yards, $344, Canada ; insert 22 yards, $99, New Granada ; insert 700 yards, $116, Holland ; and correct the footings to 1,363,622 yards, $302,975. Cottons, woven—correct $18,233, Hamburg and Bremen, to $1,459, and the total to $146,225. All other manufactures of cotton—correct $271, Holland, to $155 ; insert $21, British West Indies ; correct $2,141, Canada, to $1,797, and the footing to $572,792. All these are transpositions.
- Page 118. Cotton and silk plush. Transfer 1,933 lbs., Hamburg, from Hatters' furs, page 127 ; and transfer $317, Denmark, and $1,438, Cuba, to Cotton, silk, and wool manufactures, of mixed materials, same countries. An item of $150 in British East Indies belongs in clothing.
- Page 119. Argols. 2,990 lbs., $672, from Cream of tartar, page 126, British West Indies, belongs here.
- Page 121. Cream of tartar. Transfer to Argols, as above.
- Page 122. Earthenwares. Several small values require to be transferred from fine to brown.
- Page 123. Feathers. Two or three small items require to be transferred. See District totals.
- Page 127. Furs dressed, not on the skin. $1,933, Hamburg, goes back to page 118.
- Page 129. Glass. Transfer 2,566,529 feet, $77,871, England, from Crown plate to Cylinder ; also, 1,522 feet, $73, from Canada to Cylinder.
- Page 131. Embroideries has $422, from England, belonging in Clothing ; also insert 22,718 lbs., $1,589, Gum copal, from British Possessions in Africa, brought back from Cocoa, page 114.
- Page 133. Hair manufactures. Two or three small items require transfer, correcting the totals as in District Statement ; also the same in the column of Hats.
- Page 139. Iron, &c. Transfer 174 tons, $8,831, Hamburg, from railroad to bar. Correct cwt., heading of bar, to tons ; and correct quantity from Hamburg, to 829 tons ; from Canada, to 317 tons, and the footing to 24,250 tons. Transfer 4,640 cwt., $3,462, in bar, Hamburg, to old iron, page 141.
- Page 145. Fire-arms. Enter 94, No., $97, Russia.
- Page 148. Leather manufactures. Transfer $250, Sandwich Islands, back to India-rubber manufactures, page 138.
- Page 149. Cured meats. Add $100 to value, from England ; also add 100,000 lbs. to quantity of Almonds, from Spain.
- Page 150. Oil. Bring 68 gallons, $41, China, from Seeds, page 160.
- Page 155. Paper. Transfer $679 from line 16 to 15, and correct misprint, parchment, England, $4,811 to $4,118.
- Page 159. Rice. Transfer 43,924 lbs., $2,143, Spain, from uncleaned to cleaned.
